

With the rapid growth of the Church across the region, we help by supporting the development of Christian leaders within their own communities, cultures and nations.

Men and women filled with faith, passion and potential, face many obstacles to get the training they need to fulfill their calling to lead. Our response is to bridge this gap between poverty and potential, calling and commitment.

This strategic approach to mission enables the next generation of servant leaders to step into leadership, both within the Church and in society.

Support for the development of leaders is in partnership with training agencies and programmes affiliated to the Overseas Council Network and Langham Partnership International.

"Studying at MEGST helped me believe in my leadership gift, get important skills and confidence, and respond to God's call to reach out and lead those around me."

Equip

Equipping emerging leaders

Passionate young students and grass-roots preachers are given training, skills and support to step up and be the leaders God has called them to be in their communities. Our programmes which equip emerging leaders are Student Sponsorships and Preacher Training.

Multiply

Multiplying the ministries of senior leaders

Senior leaders are sponsored for Masters and PhD studies and are pastorally supported. This enables them to take their leadership to the next regional level: equipping and influencing hundreds of others. Many also exercise significant influence through their writing. Our programme which multiplies is Faculty Training.

Resource

Bridging the resource gap

Poverty means limited access to learning resources for leaders to interpret and deepen their understand of Scriptures, and then to teach others. Leaders are supplied with a wide range of learning resources. Our programmes which resource are Campus Development, Organisational Development & Volunteers, and Literature & IT Resources.

Care

Compassionate action

Leaders living and ministering in contexts of poverty and pressure have few – if any – financial reserves in the event disaster strikes. Existing ministry partners are supplied with relief aid if their geographic area is hit with a disaster of significant proportions, enabling them to bring profoundly practical leadership to their communities. Our programme which cares is Humanitarian Development International (HDI).

"Through the library and the study materials I'm translating into Bangla, thousands of Bangladeshi Christians are helped to grow to be leaders in the Church. Because we lack resources like this in our country, I want to keep working hard to ensure these are available for the Church."

Champa Barmon
Librarian, Bangladesh

"When I started to teach the Langham Preaching materials, all 18 local pastors wanted to attend. Some of them were illiterate. So I decided to teach just those who could read, and then, together with my wife and my younger brother, to open a literacy class for the others. This class has grown into a school."

Pastor, Indonesia

"If you have a book in our language... you have Christ in our culture."
